South Africa Mine Strike Develops Into Civil War; Boers Joining.

SITUATION GRAVE DECLARES PREMIER.

LONDON, March 11.—Premier Smuts of the Union of South Africa today told the legislature assembly, which is engaged in a discussion of the struggle in the Rand, that the people were face to face with one of the gravest situations that has yet arisen in the country. The laborite members and Ministerialists are accusing each other of responsibility for the disturbances.

STRIKE ECLIPSED BY REBEL AIMS.

LONDON, March 11.—The general strike called by the miners' leaders at Johannesburg is in reality a revolutionary movement, according to the Cape town correspondent of the Daily Telegraph. The strike issue has been eclipsed by the threat against the state, he says.

There was some speculation over Premier Smuts' delay in proclaiming martial law, but it is understood he was actuated by fear that such a step would precipitate a conflict in which the strikers, who are mainly Dutch, might be reinforced from the Transvaal.

The Johannesburg correspondent of the same newspaper reports that the Dutch farmers in the Transvaal and Benoni districts have taken the strikers and formed armed commands which attacked Benoni.

The Times' Johannesburg correspondent, on the other hand, ascribes the trouble to a widespread feeling of discontent among the Boers, who are regarded as a lawless and lawless guard. He adds that fighting is in progress throughout the Rand. He believes that the police will soon gain the upper hand in proclaiming martial law, but admits that, owing to the prevailing chaos, it is very difficult to verify the various reports.

JOHANNESBURG, March 10.—Last night's riot in the streets of Johannesburg was the first since the time this dispatch was filed, presumably after martial law had been declared, as recounted in a previous issue. The rioting and firing lasted only a few minutes.

It is reported from Benoni that a plane has been shot down, the pilot killed.

Nation's Morals O.K. Despite Jazz, Styles, Says Judge

(By Associated Press)

OTAWA, Kas., March 11.—Friends of Justice Judson N. West, of Topeka, today were discussing an address that the justice made here yesterday before the Kiwanis club, in which he discussed the morals of the country.

Justice West took the view that the nation is not going to the "how-ows" and that it is not going to be submerged in sin and iniquity because of present-day fashions and jazz music.

"Conditions have changed," Justice West said, "but are no worse than in the time when mixed groups would not talk of trees because they have limbs and young women would not change their minds without retiring to another room."

"Isomonia is much worse than other complaints for which patent medicines are made and it does not pay to lose sleep over jazz music. Some wonderful women have raised the girls of today and I think these girls will be credits to both generations."

Lloyd George Scored by Deposed India Secretary

LONDON, March 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Edwin S. Montagu, in speaking before the Liberal club at Cambridge, his constituency today, justified the policy he had pursued as secretary of state for India, and declared the doctrine of "cabinet solidarity" invoked in connection with his resignation Thursday had never been the ruling code in the Lloyd George cabinet.

"My disappearance," said Montagu, "has nothing to do with the doctrine of collective responsibility. It is an effort to preserve this government from the fate that must attend it."

"You know how dangerously near the government is to collapse. The liberal members see their colleagues disappearing one by one. The conservatives also have a lot to swallow. The die-hards have shown in the Indian, as in all other matters, a complete lack of political sagacity. They are the most dangerous element in the political life of this country, and to them the great genius presiding over the country's destinies has given my head on a charger."

Mr. Lloyd George had never been able to understand the motive for the prime minister's pro-Greek policy. "I do not think it is in the interests of the Greeks," he declared, "and I am certain it is calamitous to the British empire."

Explaining the circumstances surrounding the publication of the Indian government's telegram setting forth the Indian Ministry's attitude toward Turkey, Montagu said he had submitted the telegram to members of the cabinet last Friday week. On Monday there had been a cabinet meeting at which he told Lord Curzon, the secretary for foreign affairs, that on Saturday he (Montagu) had authorized the publication of the telegram.

If Lord Curzon had desired, Montagu declared, he could have resumed his seat in the cabinet, which was still in session and could have urged his colleagues to object to the publication. There was ample time to send a telegram stopping publication, he said, but instead of doing this Lord Curzon maintained silence and that evening wrote him "one of those plaintive, heaving, bullying, complaining letters which were so familiar to Lord Curzon's colleagues and friends. Montagu said he was convinced his policy for the development of India, was "the right and the only policy."

He continued: "The official reason given for my resignation was that I, by publishing the Indian government's telegram, outraged the doctrine of collective cabinet responsibility. I cannot help smiling. I asserted that there had been an absolute disappearance of the doctrine of cabinet solidarity ever since Mr. Lloyd George had formed his government. As for the government's Indian policy, Mr. Montagu declared, he did not believe his resignation meant any alteration in that policy."

Mr. Lloyd George, like a wizard, had brought forth from the locker cupboard the skeleton of collective responsibility, he declared, and said the speaker, who added that the country would welcome a manifesto that the premier was going to return to the doctrine of cabinet responsibility.

Police Start Drive to End Local Robberies, Thefts

Coincident with the daylight hold-up of a man within a stone's throw of the city hall and a series of daring burglaries, the police believe that Oakland is on the eve of another succession of crimes and are making preparations to frustrate the criminals.

This was announced today by Chief of Police James T. Drew, who is making preparations to handle the situation. He based his contention on a number of burglaries perpetrated last night as a sequel to the hold-up enacted shortly before dark yesterday.

Chief of Police Leonard of 1077 Forty-third street was the hold-up victim. Leonard, who is a shoe repairing journeyman, was walking along Sixteenth street at Grove when a man approached him as though intent on inquiring directions.

He stepped up close to Leonard and holding one arm under his coat, said: "That's a gun I'm pressing against your stomach. You must accompany me to the police station. Give me your money and be sure you don't overlook any, as I'm desperate."

Leonard gave the footpad $33 and then reported the incident to the police. He was accompanied by two brothers, E. A. Wallman and Edward O'Donnell, who were in the neighborhood but could find no one answering the description given by Leonard.

Last night was marked by a series of burglaries. The first one occurred shortly after 2 o'clock, when a man broke into the home of Chin Wing, 3433 Little street, and stole a watch, a gold watch, a ring and a small amount of money.

According to the police report, the burglar gained entrance through a rear window and after ransacking the house entered the room where Wing's two daughters, Hester and Alice, were sleeping.

As he entered the room Hester cried out. The man ordered her to keep silent, threatening to kill her if she made a move. Thereupon the girl leaped from the bed, armed with a pillow, and succeeded in routing the thief. A watch and $10 was stolen.

Two hours later a man whom the police believe to be the same thief entered the home of Mrs. H. Brill, 746 Sixth street, and again found his way into the bedroom. Mrs. Brill noticed the burglar and switched on the electric lights.

The burglar waited a moment, cautioning her to keep silent, and escaped through an open window. Mrs. Brill notified the police and William Hildeman conducted the investigation.

The home of Mrs. Carl Fredell, 3433 Little street, was entered by a burglar who stole a gold watch, a gold ring and a small amount of money. The same burglar, the police believe, that entered the Fredell home, also entered the home of Mrs. M. J. Kerrigan, 2848 14th street. Four gold watches and $32.50 in currency was stolen. Entrance to the house was gained with a pass key.

The room of Harry A. Stringer in the Hotel St. Francis was ransacked. A suit case containing clothing and jewelry was taken.

John Sardell of 1134 Twenty-first street reported to the police that $4 in pennies (taken from his pocket) and a small amount of money were stolen from the rear door and then forced the latch. A typewriter was stolen from the office of the woodyard which is conducted by E. F. Hughes at 802 Market street.

The Granfield-Basten Automobile Supply company reported to the police that six automobile tires were stolen at 3429 Broadway. The burglar entered the store through a back door and stole the tires through a hole in the roof.

F. W. Storer of 2237 Myrtle street told the police that his gold watch was stolen from his vest pocket, which he had left hanging in a room in the Highland hotel.

A bag of tools was stolen from the automobile of E. O. Getchell of 530 Fifteenth street. The machine was parked at First and Broadway.

Lewie Bear of 2509 Dwight way, Berkeley, complained to the police that a motorcycle was stolen from his automobile parked at Fourteenth and Webster streets.

A gold watch was stolen from the vest of Edward P. Hollinger, 836 Thirty-ninth street. The watch was hanging in his store at 2344 Webster street.

GANDHI IDEALIST WHO GAVE AWAY FORTUNE TO POOR

India Revolution Chief Filled With Zeal for His Country's Cause.

Mohan das Karmachand Gandhi has held sway over a certain section of the Indian people for a number of years, and headed the anti-government boycott in an attempt to force home rule in India. He is 52 years of age and possessed of a pleasing manner. He belongs to a Bania, or trading caste, and not to the Brahmin, or priestly caste, as generally supposed. His political mind is said to have come from his father, who was a Dewan, or chief minister. His chief genius is making lost causes live, in his life he has never sued a debtor or given evidence against an enemy.

During the tour of the Prince of Wales in India he openly ordered no native to appear in public during the royal visit.

From 1893 to 1914 Gandhi led an eventful life in South Africa. Several times crossed swords with General Smuts, and was several times imprisoned. His most sensational act was the giving away of his fortune of 7000 pounds, while he himself, penniless, set to work making shoes and teaching a few Indian pupils.

Since he became the Nationalist leader Gandhi has been looked upon by the Indian masses as possessed with supernatural powers and a miracle worker.

On December 23 Gandhi was made the virtual dictator over India. The congress appointed him the sole executive authority, except that he was not empowered to conclude terms of peace without the sanction of the congress.

Gandhi is described as a flame with Christian fervor and believes that the greatest weakness is the show of force. Along those ideas he advocated the remaining away from the schools and the boycotting of English goods that had been landed at the wharves and which he left to spoil.

FOUND IN BEDROOM.

Dr. Walter Franklin Prince, scientific ghost hunter, today withheld news of what happened last night in the "haunted" house of Alex. MacDonald at Caledonia Mills. This was taken in connection with an announcement by Dr. Prince that he would leave the haunted house next Monday morning, gave rise to reports that Dr. Prince had captured the ghost.

The investigator supplied last night all the ghost bait he could think of. He used a silver watch, a gold watch and a silver ring were taken. The same burglar, the police believe, that entered the Fredell home, also entered the home of Mrs. M. J. Kerrigan, 2848 14th street. Four gold watches and $32.50 in currency was stolen. Entrance to the house was gained with a pass key.

The room of Harry A. Stringer in the Hotel St. Francis was ransacked. A suit case containing clothing and jewelry was taken.

"Did you tell him that was the kind of night when the detective and reporter heard the strange noises?"

"No, he's doing the investigation, not me," said "Red." "Besides I reckon he's too full of theories to be interested in facts."

"Has the doctor told you anything that would indicate he thinks that somebody around here had perpetrated a hoax?"

"No. Didn't he tell the people we were a simple and guileless folk. And the professor ought to know because we told him so. But we are not so simple as to be worried over the spook stories of the detective and reporter."

"When a man gets a fright, his muscles twitch and strain, giving a sensation like a slap. Even scientists ought to know that, and get to work on the fires. We saw they and they left a mark. If the doctor is the great man they say he is, let him explain the fires. If he is going to explain the spooks of the detective and reporter first, the real have to hang round here until next winter when there is frost enough to set the old house cracking."

LINDBERG FREED ON WASHINGTON STATE CHARGE

Attorney Metson Upheld in Preventing Arrest of Accused Banker.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 11.—When W. H. Metson, attorney and clubman, at the point of a shotgun prevented the arrest of Jafet Lindberg, broker and banker, from arrest he undoubtedly prevented his prosecution in the state of Washington on a misdemeanor charge. Today Superior Judge Harold Louderback dismissed Lindberg from custody on a writ of habeas corpus on the ground that the information did not set forth that any crime had been committed.

According to the attorneys for Lindberg, had not Metson, his brother-in-law, by unusual means prevented his being taken into custody at midnight, it was planned to spirit him out of California by airplane and the remedy he obtained today at the hands of the superior court of the state would have been denied him.

LINDBERG PRESENT.

Lindberg was present for the first time today before Judge Louderback, he having just recovered from an attack of influenza. The court in arriving at his decision declared that nothing was shown to indicate that the defendant had committed any crime and that the alleged accusation of conspiracy was not sufficient to warrant his extradition from California. The specific charge against him was that he had conspired against the depositors of a Tacoma bank by the alleged advertising of the institution when it was claimed he knew it to be insolvent. The defense showed that he was not a director of the bank, but a shareholder, and that he had not through the failure of the institution.

STAY IS DENIED.

After the court's decision Rex Roubush, deputy prosecuting attorney of Tacoma, asked for a thirty days' stay. The court declared there was no such provision in the law and denied the request.

When W. H. Metson seized his shotgun and prevented Lindberg from being arrested three weeks ago, he was backed by legal authority, which does not allow officers to enter a man's home after he has retired to arrest him on a misdemeanor charge.

Lindberg was represented in court by Attorneys Maxwell McNutt, Edward McKenzie and Harry McKenzie. Attorney James Hanley appeared for the state of Washington.

Russians Print 16 Trillion Rubles

MOSCOW, March 11.—One of the paradoxes of Russia's depreciated currency is that there is never enough rubles in circulation to accommodate trade demands. Prices so increased in January that a new supply of paper money was required, and in that month the government printed an issue of 16,000,000,000,000 rubles in denominations ranging from 10,000,000 rubles to 100,000,000 rubles notes.

The Minister of Finance has promised the Soviet congress that he will print up to 23,000,000,000,000 rubles during the present year, but said he doubted whether this would be enough.

Before free trade was permitted last summer the number of rubles in circulation was estimated at 4,000,000,000,000.

The new national bank is making large loans to promote business. Up to January 15 it had loaned 93,350,000,000 rubles to government factors and co-operative and private concerns.

TREATY WITHOUT INTRIGUE, SECY. HUGHES DECLARES

Says Reflections on Work of Delegates Is Case of Erroneous Conception.

should add that in order to avoid any misunderstandings I prepared a memorandum to accompany the treaty with respect to its effect in relation to the mandated islands and reserving domestic questions.

TREATY PRESENTED AT PLENARY SESSION.

"At this stage, while it was not strictly a conference matter, in order to insure publicity at the earliest possible moment, the treaty as thus agreed upon and before it had been signed, was presented by Senator Lodge to the conference in plenary session and its import and limitations stated.

"The treaty as thus drawn was deemed to embrace the main islands of Japan. Later, in view of the sentiment with in this country and Japan, it was deemed to be preferable to exclude these main islands and a supplementary treaty was prepared to this effect which designates the islands of Japan which it was to include.

"There is not the slightest mystery about the treaty or basis for suspicion regarding it. It is a straightforward document, which attains one of the most important objects the American government has had in view and of the highest importance to the maintenance of friendly relations in the Far East upon a sound basis. The President recently said, in his communication to the Senate, it is an essential part of the plan to create conditions in the Far East at once favorable to the maintenance of the policies we have long advocated and to an enduring peace.

"In view of this and in view of the relation of the treaty to the results of the conference its failure would be nothing short of national calamity.

By LAWRENCE MARTIN,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Debate of the four-power Pacific treaty would be a "backward step in the life of this nation," Senator Underwood, Alabama, asserted in a speech to the Senate today.

Underwood, leader of the Democratic party in the Senate and a member of the American delegation to the arms conference, signed the treaty and is a leader in the fight for its ratification. His speech was intended to swing Democrats to support the treaty.

"If the Senate ratifies the treaty," said Underwood, "I am fully satisfied that there will disappear any real cause for war and that there will no longer exist the opportunity for war, that has threatened us in the past two decades."

Germany is down and out for at least the next half century. All semblance of government is destroyed in Russia," Underwood said. "This will not continue forever. The day will come in the future when a stable government recognizing human liberty will be established in Russia. But nobody can dream that such a happening can occur in the next ten years, the life of this treaty."

Neither is there any threat or conflict among the powers that signed the treaty, said Underwood.

"It is an agreement intended to assist the sword, to abandon force, so that all difficulties shall be determined by national understanding and arbitration," he said.

BETTER GUARANTEE
THAN FORTIFICATIONS.

The treaty is a better guarantee

Real Issue Is Peace in Orient, Says Underwood

WASHINGTON, March 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Describing the four-power pact treaty as "the real treaty of peace" of the arms conference, Senator Underwood, of Alabama, the Democratic Senate leader, and a member of the American delegation to the conference, told the Senate today that he would vote for the pact's ratification in the same spirit which actuated him to support the treaty of Versailles and the League of Nations.

The real issue, the Democratic leader declared, was whether the United States was ready to give its sanction to any arrangement for "peace by mutual understanding" or desired to continue "the opportunity for war that has threatened us in the past two decades."

Underwood asserted that he did not regard the treaty as an alliance, but added that even if it were and were founded on arbitration rather than force, he would support it. "To argue, on the other hand, that it is not an alliance, that it is a peace treaty, is a valueless declaration by the Alabama senator to be reverting to the philosophy of past ages.

Recounting how he had supported the League of Nations, he said he had approached the work of the arms conference ready to welcome any new effort to establish peace by international understanding rather than by the power of the sword.

POLITICAL SETTLEMENT.

"The four-power treaty," he continued, "represents a political settlement which undoubtedly was necessary before the treaty providing for the limitation of armaments was signed; that is, if the agreement to limit armaments was intended to mean more than mere saving of money to the nations who had engaged in the wild race of building battleships.

"The terms of the treaty clearly indicate that the main purpose of the conference was to call in Washington some months ago. It is a conference in which all the four powers agreed and none of the powers will be bound in advance in any way. In other words the agreements that are reached must be by the unanimous consent of all.

"The opponents of the ratification of this treaty in the main appear to base their objections on two grounds, expressing positions that are opposed one to the other. It is asserted that the treaty in effect is an alliance between the four great powers for offensive and defensive purposes, or at least, it is contended we will be drawn into that position in the end, and that we may be forced into it without our consent. I maintain that there is nothing in the treaty itself that justifies such an interpretation being placed upon it; that an agreement by a man or by his neighbor to respect the rights of his neighbor is an obligation that relates to his own conduct and does not bid him to aggressive action because the other party to the contract, whose rights he has agreed to respect, becomes involved in difficulties.

NO DEFENSE OBLIGATION.

"But the question is not left here. The foreign relations committee has moved a reservation to the treaty which beyond doubt will be adopted by the Senate which reads as follows:

"The United States understands that under the statement in the preamble, or under the terms of this treaty, there is no commitment to the United States, Hughes entered into negotiations after making it plain that the understanding must be in the form of a treaty, to be ratified by the Senate and that he in such form as to preserve the peace of the Pacific.

Balfour submitted the first draft in the form of an agreement between the four countries. This was said to be virtually a triple alliance and was rejected. Then Shidehara, on his sick bed, drew up his draft and continued to participate in the negotiations through a confidential messenger. Hughes at the time of the American delegation, then presented a draft. Other drafts were made, but out of these three principal ones the "big three," Hughes, Balfour and Shidehara, were to be in secret sessions at the state department and at Hughes' home.

APPROVAL IS GIVEN.

They gave their approval on December 2.

The United States proposed that France be included in the treaty, because of her interest in the Pacific. This was toward the end of the negotiations. Great Britain and Japan acquiesced. Rene Viviani suggested that the protective features of the treaty be extended to the Asiatic mainland, apparently so they would apply to French Indo-China. This was rejected.

During the week following December 2, favorable replies from the four governments were received, the final answer being presented at a meeting at Hughes' home on December 3. Senator Lodge, then at a plenary session on December 10, proclaimed the treaty to the world.

The name must be short, snappy and descriptive. It must signify municipal ownership and it must be sent to Superintendent Jay Nash of the playground department before May 1.

PACIFIC TREATY WRITTEN BY 'BIG THREE,' NOT ONE

Hughes, Balfour and Shidehara Agreed to Scrap Anglo-Japanese Alliance.

By A. L. BRADFORD,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The four-power Pacific treaty was framed during the arms conference table from drafts submitted by Secretary Hughes, Arthur J. Balfour and Ambassador Shidehara of Japan.

It is a composite picture of the drafts presented by the leaders. No one man wrote the pact, as has been charged in the Senate, although the treaty in its final form more nearly resembles the draft prepared by Shidehara. Its formation was prompted by Anglo-Japanese suggestions that a new treaty be drawn to scrap the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

The above is the answer to the question "Who wrote the four-power pact," now the center of the stormy debate in the Senate, which threatens to menace ratification of the treaty. It is based on information obtained when the United Press exclusive gave America the first news that the treaty had been framed and approved by "the big three," and on other information collected since the conference from reliable diplomatic sources.

MADE FIRST SUGGESTION.

The inside story of the treaty's framing is this:

Prince Tokugawa, Japanese delegate, made the first suggestion that an understanding between the United States, Great Britain and Japan be framed to replace the British-Japanese alliance. He then at a dinner broached the subject to Arthur Balfour and Sir Auckland Geddes of the British delegation.

The British approved his plan, but suggested there might be some difficulty in convincing the United States. Tokugawa replied it might be in the form of an "understanding," not necessitating Senate ratification, instead of a treaty.

WOULD SCRAP ALLIANCE.

Hughes, early in the conference, told Balfour and Kato, chief Japanese delegate, that the United States stood for the scrapping of the alliance and that the conference might as well go no further unless this were done.

Great Britain and Japan stated their willingness to scrap the alliance under a satisfactory agreement to replace it.

Seeing this was the only way of getting rid of the alliance which had been a bone of contention between the United States, Hughes entered into negotiations after making it plain that the understanding must be in the form of a treaty, to be ratified by the Senate and that he in such form as to preserve the peace of the Pacific.

Balfour submitted the first draft in the form of an agreement between the four countries. This was said to be virtually a triple alliance and was rejected. Then Shidehara, on his sick bed, drew up his draft and continued to participate in the negotiations through a confidential messenger. Hughes at the time of the American delegation, then presented a draft. Other drafts were made, but out of these three principal ones the "big three," Hughes, Balfour and Shidehara, were to be in secret sessions at the state department and at Hughes' home.

APPROVAL IS GIVEN.

ISSUES OF ORIENT PEACE.

"This is the real issue involved in the four-power treaty, the issue of peace in the Orient, the issue of safety to our country, the issue of the lives of our young men, who should be saved from this danger by the upbuilding of a grater America.

"A number of treaties were negotiated at the conference in Washington in the limitation of armaments, but this four-power treaty is the real treaty of peace. The naval treaty is remarkable in that for the first time in the history of the world, nations have really agreed to limit their armaments, but nevertheless their relative strength remains the same. The Chinese treaties establish a Magna Charta to protect the sovereignty and territorial integrity of China in the future. This one treaty stands for peace by mutual understanding and all that peace means."

its progress in civilization, as it is understood in America and other Anglo-Saxon countries. When he got to Japan he could not find this progress. Underneath the foreign imitations like the navy, the ports built and run by foreigners, some ugly foreign buildings, he said that certainly the Japanese had not changed very much in the past 500 years. This year also was a revelation to me, I learned more about the Japanese before than I had learned from previous visits and from books and from contact in Korea, China and Siberia during twenty years before.

"I believe that every Japanese should be deported from the United States and that the Japanese should be kept out of the country, but the diplomatic and consular officials, until the Japanese government, its ministers and the very best people in the Japanese nation learn the many decent ways of foreigners, and are competent to receive them into their country and know how to treat them when they come."

HAS NO RIGHTS.

"An American has no rights in Japan," says McCormick. "Even rights under the treaties are ignored. Tourists tell stories of courtesy. This is true along the main line of travel. But once an American gets off the main line of travel, he is insulted, hounded by the police and every one in which he is entitled under international treaties to be treated. Passports, unquestionable as to correctness and protected by every treaty, are ignored. Travelers are taken to the police station and questioned for hours. Japanese police live at the same hotels at the expense of travelers, until the latter, driven to desperation by the persecution, leave the city."

"Japan is still in the same era as when they put travelers in cages, transported them to the frontier and drove them out of the country. Japan has not progressed an iota morally since that time."

"Old missionary teachers in Japan declare the Japanese as a race have no foundation upon which a moral structure can be built. With most races there is a sort of 'basic decency' that is a foundation for moral ideas and obligations, but the more you learn about the Japanese the more you learn there is no such foundation, and any code of morals taught the Japanese is as unstable as a house built upon sand."

McCormick, who has collected the material for one and probably two books on East Siberia and political events under the regime of Japanese military occupation, will complete his East Siberian work this year.

Woman Solon LADY RHONDDA of England, who says that woman's greatest profession will always be motherhood.

MOTHERHOOD IS PRAISED AS DUTY

Lady Rhondda Says Women Must Also Have Equal Place in Politics.

By DAVID M. CURRICH, International News Service Staff Correspondent. LONDON, March 11.—"The greatest profession for women will always be motherhood, but women must have equal rights with men in all professions, including statesmanship," Lady Rhondda declared today in the first interview that she has granted since having run for a seat in the house of lords. Lady Rhondda, who is recognized to be London's greatest woman statesman, is taking the fight for women to sit in the house of lords. "It may be that in days before votes for the women were secured, the woman's movement received more newspaper headlines than now," she said, "but that probably was accounted for by the fact that in those days women had to resort to militancy, which was apt to receive headlines. 'The need for militancy is past,' she added. "Women now are enfranchised. They are working steadily toward the ends they have in view and they are succeeding. 'I believe that women will and must take an increasing interest in politics because there are always many questions under discussion that affect them. 'I do not think that there will ever be an exclusive women's party, because women on ordinary political questions are likely to think along the same lines as men in public life is bound to grow," she continued. "Before the next general election, I think we shall see twenty or thirty women candidates for office. It may be that within a few years we shall see a strong feminine representation in parliament. 'When women have an equal part in public affairs with men, it is not likely that there will be differences of opinion along sex lines. It will result in enlarging the pool of political opinion."

FRIEND OF SLAIN FILM DIRECTOR KILLED IN EAST

Taylor Companion Murdered While Seated in Chair at Window in Home.

RIVERSIDE, N. J., March 11.—John H. Taylor, an American amusement promoter and circus owner, said to be a close friend of William Desmond Taylor, slain motion picture director, was murdered last night in his home here under peculiar circumstances. Taylor was sitting at a window on the first floor of his home when someone outside fired pointblank with a shotgun, the charge striking him behind the left ear, smashing the skull. Mrs. Bruen, who was on the second floor, rushed downstairs to find her husband's body lying near the window. Three men were seen by neighbors to park a car near the Bruen home shortly before the murder. Their description tallies with that of motor bandits, who on July 15, 1920, broke into the Bruen home and forced Mrs. Bruen to reveal the whereabouts and death of the family valuables. The robbers obtained about $5000 in cash and jewelry at that time. According to Sheriff Stecher, who lives next door to the Bruens, the first warning he had was the heavy report of the shotgun close at hand. Running to the window, he saw light blazing from the splintered window of the Bruen home. Reaching there, with several other neighbors, they found Mrs. Bruen sobbing hysterically into the telephone, summoning assistance. Cautious detectives have sent out a flier for a man with a nose of peculiar shape, such as to attract immediate notice. The fugitive is described as short and dark, well dressed and probably traveling with two companions, also well tailored, the ages of the trio being from 25 to 28.

Invisible Klan Realm Holds Funeral For Oakland Man

Ku Klux Klan members conducted the funeral services for the late George H. Brown of Alameda at the California Crematorium in this city yesterday, marking the first public appearance of the secret organization here. Shortly before the time set for the services, at which Rev. O. H. Gruver, pastor of Christ Lutheran church in Alameda, was to officiate, about sixty men in civilian clothes arrived and took their places in the crematorium chapel with the relatives and intimates. Immediately thereafter an automobile drove up to the chapel entrance and seven men garbed in the flowing white robes of the Klan, with the picturesquely hoods masking their features, stepped out and marched solemnly into the chapel. The men marched in double file and the leader bore a flower cross, which he placed on the casket. The klansmen then withdrew to the side and waited standing while Rev. Gruver proceeded with the customary Lutheran burial service.

As soon as the clergyman had concluded his services the chief klansman took his place at the head of the casket and read the Ku Klux Klan burial service, consisting of the usual lodge ritual together with prayers. The service concluded, the klansmen in uniform made a spectacular dash to the door of the chapel, where they loitered for a moment and then sped away toward Piedmont. The car was a touring car, according to witnesses, but entirely closed, and no witness saw the license number. Lawrence Moore, manager of the crematorium, notified the Northern police station and a detail of police under Sergeant Leslie Cox conducted an investigation. INVESTIGATION ORDERED. "I have requested Inspector Captain McSorley to make a report on the episode at the crematorium," Chief of Police James T. Drew said today. "If Ku Klux Klan was placed on the list of a dead man there may be some significance to it; but beyond a perfunctory investigation as to the facts I do not see where we can do anything, unless the law is broken by possibly having as much right to a ritual as any fraternal order so far as I know. I have not looked into it yet."

Irish Wireless Corner

NEW YORK, March 11.—Jose M. Seron of the Radio Corporation of America, last night made a new world's record of 49 1/2 words a minute for receiving continental code by wireless, and won the world's championship at the second annual radio show. Seron is a Chilean, 28 years old. He came to this country a year ago with little knowledge of English, but he has acquired a working familiarity with the continental code because of his work on the South American cables. He will receive the winner's cup. The world's championship had been held through two contests by H. G. Seutter of the wireless station of the New York Times. His record was 43 3/5 words a minute.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Appreciative, but non-paying wireless amateurs, last night sat at home listening to world famous entertainers, face an edict of the Actors' Equity Association that such performers must be paid for their work. Announcement is made that the council of the association has ruled that the radiophone is competing with the theater, and that those who talk or sing in the transmitting apparatus must be compensated. In the last few months there have been numerous free concerts, free stage performances, free lectures and other features supplied to radiophone owners. The ether waves carrying these entertainments have been picked up thousands of miles distant by receiving "sets" which are as common as home brew outfits.

Kentucky Gang Robs Distillery

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 11.—Twenty bandits in two detachments swooped down on the D. L. Moore distillery at Vanarsdell, in Mercer county, early today. They captured ten persons, looted the distillery and loaded fifty to seven barrels of whisky on motor trucks and sped away. Posses later found a stranded truck containing seventeen barrels and continuing their search discovered thirty-three barrels in a barn. The first detachment of eight bandits captured a government guard some distance from the Moore plant and using him as a shield, advanced upon the distillery, where they covered the other guards with pistols and tied all up. Telephone wires had been cut and the band looted the warehouse at leisure.

Earth Shocks Felt In South America

SAN SALVADOR, Republic of Salvador, March 11.—Earth shocks are being felt in the Nicaraguan departments of Granada, Carazo and Rivas, says a Managua despatch. Buildings were damaged and fissures are visible in the earth. The volcano Ometepe continuing in eruption. No loss of life has been reported. AND FOR GERMANS SOUGHT. "The enchantment of the German song" will be the subject of a lecture tomorrow at 1125 West street by R. Cronan of New York, who is touring the west in behalf of the German relief fund committee. According to the local branch of the committee it is incumbent on the Americans of German descent to raise three million dollars to feed the German children.

The bandits escaped, abandoning their automobile. "Will Handwriting Solve the Mystery of the Lost Dauphin?" asks Harlowe R. Hoyt in "The Sunday TRIBUNE" Magazine. Schwimley Weds Hunter Girl in Romance Tangle

Son of Minister Is Not to Be Prosecuted, Claim of District Attorney Here.

Resultant of activity on the part of the district attorney's office, Leslie Carr Schwimley, clergyman's son and university senior, has married Miss Charlotte Hunter, whom he was accused of jilting in favor of Miss Hazel Pentecost, also a university senior, whose marriage to him was annulled last Monday. The marriage ceremony, performed by Rev. John D. Stephens at the First Methodist church last night, is the culmination of a series of events in the career of young Schwimley during the past two weeks. Accused by Miss Hunter's father, H. W. Hunter, of breaking his promise to marry the girl, Schwimley was threatened with arrest by Hunter. Immediately thereafter the threat Schwimley eloped with Miss Hazel Pentecost and was married at Redwood City. Hunter learned of the marriage and took his complaint to the district attorney. A series of conversations followed and Miss Pentecost sued and obtained an annulment on the ground that Schwimley had deceived her into marrying him in "order to thwart the purposes of Hunter and his daughter."

Blossoms in Orchards, Snow on Sunol Hills

CENTREVILLE, March 11.—The novel experience of walking through orchards gay with thousands of bright-hued blossoms and then turning from this vision of spring beauty to a view of snowdrifts on the hill range back of Mission Peak was enjoyed today by residents of Washington township. For the fifth time this winter snowdrifts have mantled the Sunol hills, ten miles away, the last snow falling Thursday and Friday night when it rained in the city. So late in the winter is unusual here and seldom before, according to old residents, has it been possible to travel from the blossoming orchards of Washington township to the snow-clad hills of Sunol in less than an hour. Several automobile parties from here went to the Sunol hills yesterday to have a springtime frolic in the snow. While telephony, it was said by associates of Dr. Stelmetsky today, had been revolutionized by the successful performances of the duplex transmitters completed early this week when conversations were held between New York and London at the time a distance of 360 miles at sea. The duplex telephone enables land lines to be linked in with the radio, so that one might talk over his own home telephone to persons far at sea. Harlowe R. Hoyt was necessary to turn a switch from "send" to "receive" in the radio apparatus each time the speaker became the listener.

Wounded Clerk Again Changes Shooting Story

SAN RAFAEL, March 11.—Harold D. Craig, Mill Valley clerk, has a feminine soul, according to the police there. He has changed his mind about the way in which he received a bullet wound in his shoulder four times within as many days. Craig was found wounded on the steps of his home. He was taken to the San Rafael hospital and he told the police that a burglar had shot him and escaped with $1500 and a diamond ring valued at $750. The following day he said that the story was a myth and that he had not himself fired the shot. His wife would not think he lied about a heritage which he had told her was coming to him. On the next day when the police were unable to find the burglar, he reverted to the burglary story. Today the revolver was found by Marshal T. B. Thorn-dyke and Craig issued a new statement announcing that he had shot himself.

TWELFTH STREET IMPROVEMENT TO COST CITY $72,000

Judge Trabucco Hands Down Judgments in Condemnation Suits.

It will cost the city, Oakland, nearly $72,000 to take the kinks out of East Twelfth street. Superior Judge J. J. Trabucco, who has been hearing the suits in condemnation brought by the city against the property owners affected, today handed down his judgments fixing the value of the land taken from each, the severance damages and the damages resulting from the necessity of moving sheds, garages and fences. The proposed straightening will amount to $19,880, under Judge Trabucco's rulings, while the value of the property taken is estimated at $12,000. From these figures the city is estimated to be worth only $145. All the defendants are entitled to the costs of defending their properties. PROPERTY AFFECTED. The proposed change in the course of the street will affect nineteen pieces of property. A number of these are industrial sites at present occupied, while a number of others are potential industrial sites. This added to the complication of the suit, because the change in street direction, it is declared, will make it necessary to cross East Twelfth street with spur tracks to the industrial tracks. Arguments were advanced by attorneys for the defendant property owners that the value of the industrial sites was greatly depreciated by this fact, because it would be considered doubtful that the railroad company would be permitted to cross a main thoroughfare with a spur track. LARGEST DAMAGE, $14,500. The damages allowed by Judge Trabucco range from $14,500 to the Little Sisters of the Poor down to $2,900 awarded William H. and Della Wansley for property taken. The Little Sisters of the Poor are allowed the largest sum on a single piece of property for severance damages, $14,500, and an additional $250 for removal of a greenhouse and a fence. The Derby Estate company owner of three parcels of land affected is allowed $19,880 for property taken and $4075 for severance damages. San Francisco is allowed the largest damages, granted to an individual property owner, being given $4750 for his land, $1875 for severance damages and $150 for the removal of a building. Western Pacific railway, allowed $1025 for property taken, is allowed $6025 severance damages on their properties.

My Favorite Stories by IRVIN S. COBB

With Credit to S. Blythe

Sam Blythe claims this is a true one. Maybe he is right; Sam generally is. He says a Washington wholesaler wished to learn the relative qualities of two brands of mullage. He handed one bottle of each brand to his negro janitor. "Henry," he said, "take these and test them and see which one is the stickier." Hours passed before Henry reappeared. Wearing a somewhat unhappy, not to say distressed, expression, he entered his employer's office and placed the two bottles on the latter's desk. "Well, Henry," said the jobber, "what's the result of your experiments?" "Boss," stated Henry, "it's lak dis: Dis yere one gummed up my mouth the most; but dis yere other one, the taste lasted the longest."

How I Raised My Parents

By An Ex-Child
(Chapter X)

I OBTAIN REST AND SOLITUDE FOR THEM

When I first came to my parents they were being continually bombarded by invitations to dinners, parties and various kinds of shindigs. Neighbors and friends—I make the distinction purposely—were always dropping in to spend the evening. Relatives were always dropping in to keep the guest room from being a total loss. As a result my poor parents were on the hop continually and had no time to read the newspaper comics, go to the movies, or otherwise broaden and uplift themselves.

As soon as I grew old enough I changed the situation. My first step was to learn how to recite "Mary Had a Little Lamb" with gestures. My second was to learn a few simple pieces on the piano. There was one that I was very fond of:

"Little woolly puppy dog,
Come and see this tiny frog."

It was a complete success. The tune was even simpler, if possible.

The first time I tried it out the living room was full of unexpected and undesired guests. After I had sung it the fifth time, the gathering had thinned perceptibly. I then recited "Mary Had a Little Lamb." After I had got down to the third stanza, which consisted of the first one with the gestures for the second, the exodus for the door became almost unanimous. Highly pleased, I turned again to the piano and invited the little woolly puppy dog to come and see the tiny frog again for the fifteenth or twenty-third time. At this stage of the game the room was empty, except for my mother, who was very pale, my father, who had a strange gleam in his eyes, and my grandmother, who was deaf.

A few neighbors came back some weeks later, but I merely toddled towards the piano. I didn't even get a chance to open it, when they rose and started hunting for their hats. After that our home was a quiet, restful spot. My parents lost their haggard look. They grew contented and gay. We had no visitors, no relatives, no neighbors. We never had to entertain or be entertained. And we had plenty of time to read the comics and the editorials and the movie sub-titles and grow in wisdom and grace.

REDWOOD PEAK AS PARK URGED BY BY CLUBWOMEN

Civic League Women Voters
Say Grove Should Be Bought With Fund.

The purchase of Redwood Peak and the adjoining grove of redwood trees which have been designated for park purposes was endorsed by Oakland Center, California, City League of Women Voters, yesterday. A recommendation will be made to the city council and park board that the land be purchased from funds regularly provided for the purpose, rather than by a bond issue. The importance of acquiring the redwood groves and the jeopardy in which such purchase might be placed by submitting the question to a bond election was stressed at the business meeting.

Oakland Center will be represented at a round-table discussion of the project of establishing a park in Redwood Peak, which is called for Monday noon at the Young Women's Christian Association. A special committee has been appointed to make a study of the project. The representatives are Mrs. E. R. Howell, Mrs. R. E. Danford, Mrs. Stowell, Mrs. O. P. Cole, Mrs. George Herron.

The monetary value of publicly given Oakland Center during the club year was reported by Mrs. George Herron, chairman of publicity. Had the news space in the papers distributed in the Eastbay cities been paid for at advertising rates, the cost would have totaled from $2114 to $4736. In computing the commercial value of the publicity, Mrs. Herron multiplied the total 1510.3 inches, which included photographic space received by the advertising rates in each business office. She called attention to the fact that the sum would be adjusted by division of the space among the dailies in which the news appeared.

A plea was received for work, particularly house service for girls, for students registered in the part-time classes in the Oakland public schools. The unemployment problem has affected them seriously, the leaders assert.

Mrs. F. H. Boren, president, presided as chairman of the business meeting.

MUSIC DECLARED WORK INCENTIVE

"Music in Industry" was the subject of a talk given yesterday at the luncheon-meeting of the One Hundred Percent Club at the Hotel Oakland. The speaker was Mrs. E. R. Howell, who declared that music is a real incentive to work. "In big plants where hundreds of girls are employed, it has been discovered that when they are given a chance to sing, the work efficiency is at least 25 percent. In one candy factory efficiency in the work of wrapping candy, which is ordinarily slow, tedious work has been increased 30 percent. The influence of music on the emotional nature has been known for a long time and now the idea is being applied to industry. Its influence is being used to increase the efficiency of men interested in commercial projects, when it was learned that musicians played in the rice fields in the Philippines to raise the efficiency of the workers. The Russian pianist, who was a Russian court pianist up to the time of the Czar's downfall, gave a musical program including selections from Chopin, Debussy, and other composers. As another feature of his program he alternated between his own playing and the reproduction of his playing on a player piano.

KNOW LAWS OF PRESERVATION, DESERTED PAL

SAN FRANCISCO, March 11.—The old law of self-preservation which led one of two alleged burglars to save himself rather than to aid a chance of being captured by the police, was responsible for the arrest of Edward Rawlings, alias Edward Roberts, on a charge of attempted burglary early today.

According to the police, Rawlings was attempting to jimmy into the furniture establishment of Charles M. Plum, 27 City Hall avenue, at daybreak when he was spied by Patrolman W. J. Cullinan. During the two blocks followed, during which the officer emptied his revolver in the general direction of the fugitive, Cullinan was unable to fathom the reason for Rawlings keeping in the open in his efforts to escape, until he noticed an automobile standing at the curb some distance ahead.

Rawlings is said to have been working excitedly in the doorway of the car while the man in it stood up and gestured to him repeatedly. Evidently the man in the car became frightened at the firing, and tearing the possible approach of two officers did not wait until his alleged pal reached him, but sped off. The result was that Rawlings was captured and charged at the city prison with attempted burglary.

BIBLE COLLECTION OF GOOD READING, SAYS PREACHER

Denies Scriptures Are Made Up of Texts for the Ministers.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 11.—(By Associated Press).—"Contrary to general supposition, the Bible is not a collection of texts for ministers to preach from," Theodore G. Soares, professor at the University of Chicago and preacher at the Hyde Park Congregational church, declared in an address here. "It is a collection of literature, the greatest which was developed before the coming of the Greeks. Benjamin Franklin recognized that." Prof. Soares substituted a dramatic reading of Ruth for a usual sermon from a text.

"While Franklin was in France during the period when the 'age of reason' had swept away reverence for the Bible," said Prof. Soares, "he remarked at the University of the antiquarian researches I have discovered a rare Oriental tale in an obscure volume. I should like to have read at some future gathering of this kind. The members of the society enthusiastically insisted that the esteemed Dr. Franklin's discovery be introduced at their next meeting."

'MAN WHO PLAYS THE GAME' TO BE SERMON THEME

Special Lenten music will be given tomorrow evening at the services of the First Presbyterian church by the large Temple Choir of fifty voices. The anthem, "A Song in the Night," for soprano, baritone, solo and eight part chorus and "Sun of My Soul," will be rendered by the organist, Walter Kennedy, who will play G. F. Handel's "Largo" and "Berceuse," by Godard. Miss Sadie Hart will render a soprano solo.

"The Man Who Plays the Game" is the theme upon which Dr. Frank Silsley, the pastor, will base his sermon on tomorrow evening. This is the second in a series of Lenten sermons on characters whom Jesus touched in speaking of his subject. Silsley stated, "We admire the man who plays the game, who has grit and determination, and who counts to all the rules of the game. We do not like the man who huffs and puffs, who is subject to fits of anger, who is difficult to get along with, who is the man playing the game when he abuses soul and body. Are the members of the Board of Education playing the game? Is the 'Dry Squad' playing the game? At the morning service Dr. Silsley will discuss the subject, 'The Holy Spirit and a Witnessing Church.' At the close of the morning service the blessing of consecration will be given to 120 men who will make the Every Member Canvass of the church and congregation for the raising of the annual budget for church support and edification.

On Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock the Men's Club of the church will hold their regular monthly dinner. This is to be "Song and Story" night and a program is being prepared. Ira M. Allen and Howard Gilkey, city landscape architect will give the addresses.

Catholic.
WE ARE CATHOLICS
because our reason and a million evidences around us prove there is a God, and while Jesus Christ, the Son of God, lived on earth. He founded a Church. Consult your Bible, Matt. 16:18, "I say unto thee, that thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my Church." Observe the use of the singular number, CHURCH. History proves conclusively that the Church was the Catholic Church. That is why we belong to it. Pastors, leading churchmen of 19th century, was a Catholic.

THE OBSERVANCE OF LENT.

Practically all churches of the Christian faith are paying more attention to the observance of Lent this year than ever before in the history of the church. Special week-day services are being held and special efforts are being put forth by those in charge to make these services the very best.

There has been observed by many pastors in the past few years that on Easter Sunday larger congregations attend the church than at any time of the year. Those in charge of the special services about the bay report that the pre-Easter services are being attended by larger audiences than in previous years.

Ash Wednesday on March 1 opened the season of Lent. Ash Wednesday is closely observed by the Roman Catholic, the Episcopal and a number of other Protestant churches. The observance of the day is an ancient custom, still in use in some of the Christian churches today of sprinkling ashes on the heads of the congregation.

The Lenten season is generally recognized as the preparation for the great feast of Easter and as a time of special penitence. Its duration is forty days, which have been established by the church. These forty days are regarded as being kept after the example of Moses and Elijah and above all as commemorating the fasting of Christ.

The last seven days of the Lenten period are known as Passion or Holy Week, and begin on Palm Sunday. At the Thursday of the week is observed in some Christian churches as Maundy Thursday, and is kept as commemorative of the institution of the eucharist. This day commemorates the fasting of Christ.

Following the reports of the nominating committee the election of trustees to serve for three years was held. The following were elected: Honorary trustees, Colonel John F. Irish, Mrs. Allen D. Wilson, Dr. Charles W. Wendte, trustees, H. H. Shant, C. H. Redington, Mrs. Clara B. Wise and Wilson S. Gould.

During the program which followed the transaction of the business matters, two numbers, "Loch Lomond" and "For the New Year" (Mendelssohn) were rendered by the church choir.

"The Triumphs of Unitarianism in America" was the subject of an interesting address delivered by Dr. Eliot. Dr. Wendte spoke on "The International Message of Unitarianism" and Mrs. J. M. Jackson, chairman of the finance committee, reported on the work of the church during the year.

The house was decorated for the occasion with a color scheme of pink and white being followed out.

Women, Wine, Theme at Olivet Congregational

Special services are being conducted at Olivet Congregational church during the Lenten period preparatory to Easter. Sermons of an evangelistic nature are being delivered each Sunday morning by Rev. Harold Gotte, the pastor. Tomorrow morning the subject for the sermon will be "Wine, Women and Woe." This discourse Rev. Gotte states that he proposes to speak of the necessary equipment required by man in the secular pursuits of life, then to show what equipment is necessary in the Lord's service.

In the evening service Rev. Gotte will deliver his fifth sermon on the series "Wine, Women and Woe." Rev. Gotte states that in this sermon he will speak of the superior quality of women and that while women lack leadership they are absolutely necessary for the development of the church. These services will be open to the public.

stated purpose, is to see that the ether roads and their use do not pass to private monopoly, that the public right over them be reserved and jealously guarded.

MORE ECHOES.
In Mr. McCormick's special despatch to THE TRIBUNE printed in yesterday's issue is detailed an incident in connection with his articles and published secret documents exposing the amazing political situation in Vladivostok which probably will excite considerable local interest. This despatch constitutes the story of how the Japanese government moved to meet the critical situation caused by the McCormick exposures.
Immediately after the publication in this country of the Akiama-Tachibana telegrams, the provocation concocted by the Tachibana staff against Major Clarke and other Americans in Siberia, and other documents, the War Ministry summoned Tachibana to Tokyo. A series of hurried conferences followed, and the General Staff of the Japanese war establishment agreed upon and ordered the execution of this program with reference to the exposures:
First, suppression of publication of the exposures throughout the Japanese empire; second, denial of the authenticity of the documents exposed, and third, increased fulminations defaming Americans, especially those in Siberia and Manchuria.
All three phases of this program have been executed. The point of local interest is that the second phase of the order was carried out in this country immediately. Japan's propagandists here at once began to designate the published documents as forgeries. They said the recitals of the episodes in the Japanese plot against Major Clarke and Americans in general were without foundation.
But this effort of the Japanese military staff and its aides was doomed to failure. Besides the official confirmation, subsequent events have made a further exposure of the Siberian situation. Japan has forced President Merkuloff of its dummy government at Vladivostok, known as the Russian Pri-Amur government, to resign.
And, as told in today's news, Captain Louis J. Richardson, U. S. N., who as commander of the cruiser Albany and senior naval officer in Vladivostok, refused to transmit Major Clarke's report of the terrorist plot against him to Washington, has been demoted, while on active duty, from the provisional rank of Captain to that of commander, and the Albany has been relieved by the sister ship New Orleans, under command of Captain Owen.
The case of Consul Magowan is now being reviewed by the State Department at Washington.
A self-respecting government policy, declining alike to yield to Japanese terrorism and to tolerate American poltroonism, would soon satisfactorily "liquidate," in the term of Japan's plotters, the American situation in Siberia.

POLICING THE AIR.
A conference was held in Washington the other day by radio, telephone and telegraph experts under the auspices of the Department of Commerce. Statements were made showing the amazing growth of wireless telephony and telegraphy, the Department of Commerce experts estimating that there are in use today over 600,000 persons possessing wireless telephone sets. Other estimates placed the number as high as 1,000,000.
It is not surprising, therefore, that experts in wireless communication feel that it is time to consider some means of regulating the use of the air. They hold that means must be devised which will make it possible to obtain the maximum commercial and official service from the air, with the minimum of interference and restriction to other purposes of wireless communication.
There are some careless cynics who ridicule this idea of charting the ether. They belong to that class who like to dismiss a problem by deprecating its importance. It is rather an amazing advance to appear to reach that point where government or mutual agreement must consider regulation of the use of the air. This is something which, since the time when the human mind attained the faculty of thinking, was supposed to be free. But it may be that we shall have to discard very shortly that favorite expression, "free as the air."
The importance of the question is indicated in a degree by the remarks of Secretary Hoover at the conference. He said:

"It is the purpose of this conference to inquire into the critical situation that has now arisen through the astonishing development of the wireless telephone, to advise the Department of Commerce as to the application of its present powers of regulation and further to formulate such recommendations for the legislation necessary. This is one of the few instances where the country is unanimous in its desire for more regulation.
"We have witnessed in the last four or five months one of the most astounding things that has come under my observation of American life. This department estimates that today over 600,000 (one estimate being 1,000,000) persons possess wireless telephone receiving sets, whereas there were less than 50,000 such sets a year ago. We are indeed today upon the threshold of a new means of widespread communication of intelligence that has the most profound importance, from the point of view of public education and public welfare. The comparative cheapness with which receiving stations can be installed and the fact that the genius of the American boy is equal to construction of such stations within the limits of his own savings, bid fair to make the possession of receiving sets almost universal in the American home."
Mr. Hoover, who by the way put in a brief for liberal consideration for the boys with wireless instruments, drew a lively picture of possible complications when he said that obviously, if 10,000,000 wireless telephone subscribers should be crying through the air for their mates at the same time they would never make connections. The ether would be filled with frantic chaos, with no communication of any kind possible.
A probable basis of such regulations as may be formulated was indicated when Mr. Hoover said that the wireless telephone must be considered to have one definite aim, and that is the spread of certain predetermined matter of public interest from central stations. And that "this matter must be limited to news, to education, to entertainment and the communication of such commercial matters as are of importance to large groups of the community at the same time."
The Department of Commerce has been authorized by Congress to license radio stations, which gives the department ample power to regulate the use of the wireless telephone and telegraph. This is police power and we are thus already at the juncture where the ether, a part of the celestial system, becomes also the domain of the policeman, says Mr. Hoover. A communication policeman will listen in and detect and capture those other hogs who are endangering the traffic.
The main duty of the government, as it is its

The next Philippine Independence mission to the United States will arrive sometime in May. It will be headed by that redoubtable junta director, Senor Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine Senate, and Senor Sergio Osmena, speaker of the House. The object of this mission is announced to be the counteraction of the effect of the Wood-Forbes report on conditions in the Philippines. Possibly it may also have time to tell Congress just what measure of independence the Filipino people really desire and why they want it—that is, give some practical reasons aside from the reasoning of the political idealists who care nothing about the material welfare of a people.
President Harding has left the capital for a few days for the milder climate of Florida. But it can hardly be called a vacation, for the President will work on pressing government matters that demand his attention and probably with larger results than amidst the official and social interruptions of Washington.

FIREBUGS.
In the last twelve months there has been a suspicious increase in the number of fires in New York City. The authorities bluntly assert that some of the fires were started deliberately to conceal the removal of goods bought on credit, and not paid for, and to collect insurance money. Arson has become so menacing that the Board of Fire Underwriters, representing the great fire insurance companies, has established a fund of $100,000 to use in pursuing and prosecuting firebugs.
The Fire Underwriters' detectives will co-operate with the police and the Fire Prevention Bureau. They should have the voluntary assistance of real estate owners, their employees and all tenants, whether they occupy rented quarters for business or for residences. Incendiarism is not a crime against rich insurance corporations or against pressing creditors. It is a crime against the public, and every firebug enhances the cost of living for every honest man and endangers the homes and lives of every person in the city.
A fire set to blight a creditor raises the cost of insurance in all quarters of the town. The cost of insurance goes into rent. In a city of renters, which New York is so far as the homes of its inhabitants are concerned, an incendiary fire in a fur shop means higher rents all over town.
But this is not the worst of it. Every fire in a congested urban community puts in peril the lives of scores, hundreds, thousands of individuals. A little blaze in a great loft building may do inconsequential damage, but, doing it, that fire may start a panic costing many precious lives. A swindler burning up his stock in a shop adjoining a motion picture theater may start a panic which hundreds of men, women and children may be killed. A torch applied to an unpaid stock of goods at midnight may destroy a tenement house, and young and old, hale and infirm, may be suffocated.
There should be no leniency for the incendiary, no letup in the pursuit of the firebug. He is every man's enemy, and against him every protective engine of society should be used.—New York Herald.

Sir—It isn't so much that our parents set us adrift on the stream of life without proper means of propulsion as the fact that they don't teach us how to use the oars. I'm not finding fault with those responsible for my being here to write this kind of stuff, but somehow I can't help but wish that they had instructed me in the art of steering the craft as diligently as they insisted that I be kind to animals and hold my soup spoon in my right hand. They were kind enough to provide the boat and the oars and supply me with a navigation chart, but that is as far as they got.
All of which is preliminary to my asking you for a philosophy that will help in troubled times. Please don't send me a chaplet of daffodils or advice to turn my eyes to the hills, which are growing green and are beckoning.

Drat you, Spring! Ding bust your eyes!
It ain't that I would poetize,
Or wander far afield, that I
Drat you, Spring and bust your eye—
But Spring, you plague, you rasp, you vex.
You send me to the fairer sex;
You make me glow for some pink marm.
You place my hand upon her arm,
And speed us forth among the marts
Of commerce, and of other parts
Of town where windows shout their wares.
Inviting pocketbooks and staves,
Elaucation, gasp and wish—
It's put right up to me—poor fish!
I buy her hats and gowns and jools—

Who feel the sap and spirits rise—
Drat you, Spring! Ding bust your

NOTES and COMMENT

The Nevada State Journal explains about a blizzard: "People have become so accustomed to speaking of every severe winter storm as a 'blizzard' that the term is in danger of losing its original significance and terror. An authority feels called upon to remind us that every real blizzard has three inescapable and unmistakable concomitants: First, intense cold; second, heavy snow; third, high wind. Judged by these three standards in combination, blizzards are very rare in this part of the country."
Jeffries attracts the attention of the Brooklyn Eagle: "If heavyweight Jim Jeffries becomes a preacher, like his father, should meet the Rev. Billy Sunday on the circuit and they should decide to hunt in pairs, every one of the Moody and Sankey achievements would be outdone. No sermon without punch would be apprehended."
The Kansas City Star mixes in the Darwin controversy: "Some of the paragraphs who lean toward the Darwin side of the controversy point to the fact that Adam acted a good deal like a monkey just before he was expelled from Eden. But why do the Darwin paragraphers need to go clear back to Adam?"
The Oregonian descants on March: "March is a changeable month, because it has not yet made up its mind precisely where it belongs in the category of months. It used to be the first month of the year, in the old Roman days, when it was named after the ancient deity of war. But until as recently as 1752 March 25 was the beginning of the fiscal year in this country and in England, and the custom of leasing dwellings beginning with that date prevailed in some localities until well toward the close of the nineteenth century."
Congressmen who have been in the habit of "mending their political fences" with the garden seeds received a jolt on Monday from the House Appropriations Committee. The bill which was to carry an allowance of $360,000 for this purpose was reported with the seed appropriation missing. Members who think that they ought to get the seeds promise a fight to restore the appropriation.
Democratic observation from the Woodland Democrat: "Hoover has been offered a salary of $150,000 per year to be director of the proposed Sequel-Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia, but he is so deluded with the idea that presidential lightning may yet strike him that he fears to get out of politics, even temporarily, lest he might not be able to get back again."
The Los Angeles Times asks an overt question: "The Woman's Foundation for Health is making and introducing a shoe that is intended to free the sex from its bondage to the bootmakers. The new shoe has a broad heel and plenty of room for the toes. It also possesses a straight inner line and a flexible shank. But does a lady want a flexible shank?"

KEEPING YOUNG.
When it comes to growing older, I suppose I'm on the way.
As a risk for life insurance, I've a higher rate to pay.
I know my years by number, and the figure I behold
Is one that in my twenties I considered rather old.
But I whistle and chuckle like the boy who used to be
And I'll tell the world this morning Time has made no dents in me.
I'm as keen for playing baseball as I was in Ninety-two.
I could swing a bat and hit 'em in the way I used to do;
Let the life insurance fellows say my hair is turning gray
And each year I'm getting older, I can't see it just that way.
For when I get to thinking of myself, somehow I find
I've always got the picture of a youngster in my mind.
I don't think of me as aging. All the years have lightly flown.
And I've never stopped to count them or the burdens I have known;
I go laughing down life's highway still the boy I used to be.
And what if nighttime finds me with a youngster on my knee,
And what if people tell me that I'm getting old and gray?
I am just as young as ever—anyhow, I feel that way.

A Bargain Sale.
Little Jane had long wanted a baby sister, and one day she came rushing home in great excitement.
"Oh, mother, come quickly!" she exclaimed. "There are splendid bargains in babies, and you can get one while they are cheap."
"What in the world are you talking about, child?" the mother asked in astonishment. "Somebody must have been playing a joke on you."
"No, mother!" the little girl declared, jumping up and down in her eagerness. "A great big sign about it, on the top of the skating rink. It says, 'This week only, children half price.'"

What You Ought To Do When Baby Has the Colic

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Commissioner of Health,
New York City.

Many a young mother has been frightened nearly to death when her baby, without the slightest warning, has let out a shriek loud enough to raise the dead.
This is a symptom of colic. Crying in children is usually due to colic. The child may seem perfectly well and go to sleep as usual. Suddenly he starts from his sleep and utters a loud cry. His legs are drawn up and he moves about in his efforts to get relief from the pain.
There are many reasons for colic. Wrong feeding is the most common cause. Undigested food in the intestinal tract produces the trouble. Generally there is constipation, with intestinal fermentation as a result. The gas formation is followed by colic.
Too much candy, too much sugar—these are common causes.
Over-feeding and irregular feeding are other important factors.
While we are speaking particularly of colic in children, the same causes will produce colic in grown people.
Hastily drinking of milk or bolting of other food may be followed by these unpleasant symptoms.
The sudden cry of the child is not always due to colic. It may come from earache, and the possibility of ear trouble with such symptoms must never be overlooked.
Frequent attacks of colic demand correction of the feeding. The first thing to do is to select the right food, to prepare the milk properly, and to give the food at regular times.
The constipation should be overcome by right feeding, and at the time of the acute attack the bowels must be emptied at once. An enema of hot water and soap will speedily stop the cutting pains of colic. One or two pints of water will be effective.
Hot-water compresses to the stomach or the use of the hot-water bag will promote comfort.
I am sorry to say that paregoric is given by some mothers to relieve the colic of the baby. Under no circumstances should paregoric or any other opium product be given by a layman. It is rare indeed, for the modern doctor to resort to opiates, but, if they are justified, they should not be given without the personal direction of the family doctor.
Sometimes rhubarb and soda, or milk of magnesia, or a little baking-soda in water may be given. But it is better to employ the enema and hot applications, and call the doctor if relief is not obtained quickly.

TAKES HIS WIFE'S NAME.
What next? Recently the men of the nation learned to their consternation that suffragist leaders who married had decided to retain their maiden names. Miss Elsie Hill, chairman of the National Woman's party, set the distinguished example. Now comes an even more amazing development—husbands of suffragist leaders appear to be taking the names of their newly acquired wives.
One of New York's prominent newspapers bore front-page evidence of a concrete case. It is represented in Berlin by Raymond E. Swing, who during the winter took unto himself as spouse the charming Miss Betty Gram, formerly of Washington and a militant suffragist. To the astonishment of his friends and comrades here, Mr. Swing's name now appears as "Raymond Gram Swing."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

FOUR-POWER PACT - OR ANGLO-JAPAN TREATY, IS CHOICE

BERKELEY, March 11.—That the defeat of the four-power treaty drafted by the Washington Disarmament conference will lead to the automatic revival of the Anglo-Japanese pact is the declaration of Dr. E. T. Williams, professor of Oriental languages at the university and addressee to the American delegates at the party.

"The Pacific ocean will be the scene of the great world events of the future," he said at yesterday's university meeting held in Harmon Gymnasium, "and if the four-power agreement is ratified, England and America will be able to join the other great powers in preserving the peace of the world. In the event that the Anglo-Japanese pact is revived, difficulties with Japan would force Great Britain to come to the aid of the Orientals, and the English-speaking peoples would find themselves engaged in bloodshed and warfare."

LAUDS PACT

"Under the pact, no more entangling arrangements are reached than those under many of the arbitration treaties ratified and negotiated by the last administration. The four-power treaty provides for the calling of a meeting to 'talk things over' in the event of difficulties arising in the Far East."

The other works of the conference were outlined to the students by Dr. Williams. He declared that the program of naval disarmament and the projects to stop an increase of fortifications of insular possessions in the Pacific would lead to peace and would stop the race of nations for armed supremacy.

AUSTRALIAN SPEAKS

Rev. O. W. McCall, another speaker at the student meeting, told the colleagues of the common traditions of the English and American peoples, and interpreted history from the British viewpoint. Rev. McCall is a recent arrival in Berkeley from Australia, and is pastor of the First Congregational church. He told the students that the joining of the English-speaking peoples to give peace to the world would make the contribution of the British and Americans as important to the world as were the Jews of the Romans, and the art of the Greeks.

Club Asks for Half Fare for Children

A petition for a special rate of half fare on all lines operating in Oakland for school children was authorized after school to the state railroad commission by Elmhurst Community club last night. A special public utility committee was created. A demand for action in the matter of an Elmhurst Junior High school was made by vote of the club and a special delegation appointed to appear before the board of education.

The questionnaire of the park board was tabled. Among the questions discussed were fire hydrants for the district and fire house project. The election of officers was postponed to April 14. A card party is announced for March 25.

The Elmhurst school orchestra of twenty players rendered a musical program at the meeting last night.

ONE ROBBER SUSPECT IS LIBERATED

Max Harris, Member of the Alleged $130,000 Diamond Robber Gang, Released From Jail Last Night

Max Harris, one of the three men captured yesterday by the sheriff's office and held as suspects for the $130,000 diamond robbery in St. Paul, Minn., was released from the county jail last night without having a charge placed against him.

According to information received by Sheriff Frank Barnett, who engineered the capture of Max Harris, his brother John and Gustav Schaeffel, known as "Gloomy Gus Schaeffel," indictments have been returned against the Ramsey county grand jury against the last two only.

Meanwhile Frank Carr, attorney for the men, has obtained a writ of habeas corpus returnable next Monday, and officers are rushing from St. Paul and Los Angeles to attempt to seize the two men before the writ is returned.

OFFICERS ON WAY

The officers from St. Paul started yesterday on advice from Sheriff Barnett, and when he notified Sheriff John Wagner of St. Paul later that the writ had been issued word was sent the district attorney of Ramsey county, who is visiting in the south.

He is expected to arrive in Oakland this evening to fight the case against Carr and hold the two men in the county jail until the officers can arrive from the East with the extradition papers.

That the men are wanted for the Shapiro robbery and not for forgery was affirmed by Sheriff Barnett today after telegraphic communication with Sheriff Wagner. News had come from the city police of St. Paul that the men were wanted for forgery and not robbery.

DARING HOLDUP

The two men are accused of perpetrating a daring holdup in October when they kidnaped and bound August Shapiro, proprietor of a big jewelry store in St. Paul, and forced him at the muzzle of a revolver to open his private safe and give them gems valued at $130,000.

Immediately after the robbery descriptions of the men were sent broadcast, and through these descriptions Deputy Sheriffs Joseph Soares, Bert Brown and Jack Collier effected their capture on Thursday night at the Hotel Ray, Tenth and Washington streets.

According to the sheriff's office the men were wearing about $10,000 worth of diamonds, and later the following day $3000 in gems were seized from the safety deposit box kept by Mrs. Ida Schachtel, wife of "Gloomy Gus," in the Portuguese-American bank.

The seizure was made as Mrs. Schachtel was engaged in emptying the contents of the box, which included $5000 in currency. No charge was placed against her and she was permitted to keep the money.

$5000 REWARD.

Sheriff Barnett said today that a reward of $5000 had been posted by the Pinkerton Detective Agency for the arrest of the men who committed the crime, and that this reward was not dependent on the recovery of the loot.

Meanwhile the sheriff's office is being besieged with wires from all parts of the country asking for the Mississippi asking for descriptions of the men under arrest.

Schachtel has been in trouble in San Francisco, according to the sheriff, having been arrested in 1913 for carrying concealed weapons.

FUNDS ROLL IN FOR MEN OUT OF JOBS

"One Per Cent" Drive Among Wage Earners Is Proving Successful, Say Leaders; Employers Are Cooperating

The "one per cent drive" for the benefit of the unemployed will prove successful, was the opinion voiced by Thomas Eaglesome, chairman of the citizens' emergency employment and relief committee to-day after receiving reports of results made by the team captains.

According to Eaglesome the men who have offered their services to secure the pledges of every worker in the Eastbay district to 1 per cent of his salary for the next eight weeks are meeting with success, and the luncheon meeting next Monday will show the results.

"Everywhere the workers are meeting splendid co-operation on the part of the employers," said Eaglesome. "These employers have not only sent out the word to the men, but they have taxed themselves 1 per cent of their salary in addition to their other contributions."

LETTER TO EMPLOYERS.

A. S. Lavenston of the H. C. Capwell company has issued a letter to the employees of the store explaining the 1 per cent plan and saying in part:

"The committee in charge of the relief of families of the unemployed has hit upon the most rational and sensible plan for raising the needed money. It is based upon a reasonable contribution on the part of the individual and upon the ability of each to contribute in proportion to the salary he receives. It gives 1 per cent of our income for two months. This means that a man getting a salary of $100 is to contribute $1 a month for two months."

"You may not always be in a happy position of having a job and being surrounded with sympathetic friends. Put yourself in the other fellow's place."

CARD PARTY PROFITS.

Mrs. Georgia C. Baker, treasurer of Oakland Civic Center, has turned in a check for $30.30, the proceeds of a card party given by the organization.

Employees of the Hotel St. Mark clubbed together and raised $42.38 for the fund.

Bert S. Hubbard of a lithograph company contributed $25 today, though he does not have an office in Oakland.

Eaglesome, chairman of the Citizens' Emergency Employment and Relief Committee, commented yesterday on the fact that the number of "floaters" at the municipal woodyard is smaller this year than last, while the number of registered Oakland married men is nearly eight times as great as last year.

NEW SIGNAL LIGHTS.

SAN LEANDRO, March 11.—Police protection for San Leandro was further increased when new sets of police signal lights were installed in various portions of the city yesterday. Lights had been placed on East Fourteenth street at intervals but it was decided by the city marshal that they were inadequate. The recent heavy rain and wind storms succeeded in working loose various parts of the lighting mechanism and wiring, necessitating repairs on those already installed.

100 HOTEL GUESTS FLEE NIGHT FIRE

Blaze in Peerless Cafe Creates a Near-Panic Among Sleepers; Loss Estimated at $5000; Starts in Kitchen

More than 100 scantily-clad guests fled from their rooms in the Athens hotel, 1546 Broadway, early today when they awoke to find the Peerless Cafe, adjoining the hotel, a seething furnace of flames. According to spectators, the flames shot high into the air above the roof level of the hotel and were blown against the wall of the building by a brisk wind. The hotel was undamaged, however, and none of its patrons was injured. The rear section of the cafe was destroyed and the main dining room badly injured. P. Lisse, manager of the cafe, said the damage would amount to more than $5000, partially covered by insurance.

The fire apparently started in the kitchen of the cafe. It gained such rapid headway that by the time the fire department arrived fears were expressed it would sweep all the buildings in that vicinity.

COLBOURN HOLDS BACK DECISION

Frank Anderson, chauffeur for the police inspector's bureau, is credited with having, through his prompt action, prevented what might have been a serious conflagration. Anderson was on duty at 3 o'clock this morning, and was en route to the city hall in his automobile. At the corner of Webster and Tenth streets the flames rising in the air and located the source of the fire by its proximity to the Federal office building.

Anderson immediately communicated with the fire department through a police telephone box and turned a fire-fighting apparatus was at the scene of the fire and in action when additional apparatus summoned by two other alarms arrived.

STADIUM SITE CRITICS OFFER NEW OBJECTIONS

BERKELEY, March 11.—In an attempt to prove that the stadium proposed by the University regents will not fit in the Strawberry Canyon site, members of the Campus Protective Association have placed a model of the site demonstrating the amount of earthwork necessary to complete the structure. The model, which is made in exact proportions, shows that an embankment 49 feet high will have to be placed above the street levels in order to build the type of stadium contemplated.

Man Falls Into Elevator Shaft, Hurt

SAN FRANCISCO, March 11.—Plunging 25 feet down an elevator shaft in the building at 112 Kearney street, C. E. Duncan, 40 years, of 1806 Union street, was seriously injured today. Duncan is the operator of the elevator. He believed that it had been left stationary at the second floor, he opened the door and stepped in. The cage was, however, at the top of the shaft, and he dropped into space. His left leg was broken and he suffered a possible broken back. The fire department was called to aid in rescuing him from the pit, and he was conveyed to the Harbor hospital.

You pay the regular price for one oil change, but we will give you the care of your car for three months with no labor charge; all you pay during these three months will be for oils and greases used. Skipper Missing 7 Years, Wife Seeks Insurance

After searching for seven years in many parts of the world for her husband, a sea captain who mysteriously disappeared one night from his merchant ship, Mrs. Jane F. Ayer of Emeryville, has at last given up hope of finding him among the living. She accordingly filed suit today against the Metropolitan Insurance company for her husband's $2000 insurance. The missing husband is Captain John G. Ayer of Emeryville, well known for many years in shipping circles throughout the world.

Captain Ayer, who was skipper of the tramp steamer "Roe," returned to his cabin one night seven years ago, on a voyage out from Seattle, and was never seen again. The crew discovered next morning that his bed had not been slept in.

Mrs. Ayer declares in her complaint that refusing to give up hope she had personally visited his favorite haunts in many parts of the world. The fact that she has found no trace of him has at last convinced her, she says, that he is dead.

Mrs. Ayer asserts that the insurance company refuses to accept her unsuccessful search as proof of her husband's death, and asks a court order establishing his demise and compelling the company to pay the insurance.

DISTRICT FOR UTILITIES IS URGED HERE

Nine Cities in Eastbay Region Join in Move and Map Will Be Presented at Next Meeting to Be Held March 27

The next step to be taken by the nine municipalities of the East Bay toward the formation of a municipal utilities district will come on March 27, when the separate councils will meet to adopt resolutions asking the supervisors to call an election. Before the election is called the Municipal Water Association, organized at the Oakland city hall yesterday, will have a map prepared of the proposed district and, it is believed, will have agreed upon the details of organization. The election, in all probability, will be held at the same time as the August primaries.

The city engineer of Oakland, at yesterday's meeting, was requested to draw a map of the boundaries of the proposed district. This will be presented two weeks hence, when the board of supervisors will meet to confer with the city officials about the district.

Several hundred American patrons were amazed last Wednesday night when the sheriff and owners of "The Four Horsemen" stopped the exhibition of the film in the middle of a performance at the American. They contended that the local theater had no authority to show the picture at popular prices, and would consent to its showing only when the manager

OAKLAND NATIVES WANT TO BEAT THE KANDY KIDS AT BEST

Final Game of Class "A" Championship Series to Take Place Tomorrow Afternoon

By DOUG MONTELL.

The announcement from the camp of the Poplar Candy warriors to the effect that the mighty Bill Plummer would probably hurl the final game against the Oakland Natives tomorrow afternoon at the Coast League Park is not causing his men any loss of sleep according to Manager Bill Crosby of the N. S. G. W. National Division champs. Not a bit of it, in fact the Natives appear to rejoice over the announcement, not that they seek to discredit Plummer's ability as a pitcher, they readily admit his ability along those lines, but a change of scenery on the mound will be welcome according to the bat wielders of the demon manager. The N. S. G. W. team has it all figured out that the third game should be a nip and tuck proposition with the breaks deciding the winner. When the series started it was evident that the National Division winners considered themselves better than their rivals but the beating in the first game changed all that and they are now ready to play real baseball under any and all conditions.

The Natives welcome the announcement that Plummer may be the chucking choice of Tommy "Redcap" Lynch because when the Natives Plummer is admittedly the best bet on the Poplar Candy staff. Manager Crosby's boys want to win the third game badly and they think it would be a cinch if Carl Kamb is allowed to stop out to do the honors for the third successive time, pointing out that they bumped him for seven runs last week in two batting rallies and that he is the only pitcher where they were needed. All the mystery about Kamb went off with one game and he no longer can be said as the man to win the Poplars the Case "A" pennant.

N. S. W. Team To Be at Best

On the other hand, while the Natives are anxious to annex the championship they do not want to be said afterwards that the reason they won was because Plummer, or anyone else for that matter, was a good pitcher. The rivalry between the Poplars and Oakland N. S. G. W. is at fever pitch and the Natives want both teams to be clean cut sports and they want the final game to be waged with each club at its best strength. "There is more satisfaction in beating a club when it is at its best," said Walter "Dutch" Holstrom, manager of the Poplars, "and I expect the Natives to be at their best." He said that the Natives are a formidable hitting club by coming back to win the first game, who are coming back to win the previous Sunday. Kamb has lost his effectiveness against us now and we are going to beat them as easily as Gardner or Fitzgerald just as easily. That's confidence in the ability of the Natives to beat the Poplars and a right to be confident for the Poplars to their side of the ledger.

Oakland and Tech Are High Hoop Winners

Fremont Falls Before Blue and White in Local School Championship

By MARTIN ROTKE.

The Oakland High basketball team climbed one step higher in their dash for the O. A. L. pennant when they trounced the Fremont preppers yesterday at the Oakland Auditorium, 27 to 22. The perfect obstacle left in the path of Pennantville for the Blue and White is the University High quintet. University pulled a big surprise last year, but it is doubtful whether they can do the same against such a classy outfit as the Blue and White.

Oakland showed better passing and shooting ability than their opponents yesterday. The perfect obstacle left in the path of Pennantville for the Blue and White is the University High quintet. Amateur Swimmers Have Own System

Don't it beat all how these champion swimmers get by. The amateurs pay two-hits for an A. L. card and then keep working. In the winter they go to Florida and pose for pictures which is sent over the country to advertise the beaches there and cause the general public to wonder how it is done. In the summer the "amateurs" tour the country, live at the best hotels and have wads of dough to spend for luxuries. Some of them

Broadway Bill's Weekly Review

by Bob Shand

Accordin' to the reports of the Angelle correspondents, a good time was had by all at the grand opening of James J. Jeffries, evangelistic tour. They wasn't nothin' said in the stories about the extent of the tour, but it seems that it started in Burbank, a slight suburb of L. A., and ended in a small hall on an obscure side street in the city of the transplanted Iowans.

When Jeff appears in the hall to exhort his congregation it must be felt like old just fourth he reported as the ring to get some aspirin! heavyweight goof for a goal. Little Dick Ferris was there with an armful of tracts which he was givin' away for nothin' to the customers and the elite of Spring street society was on the job wearin' its brightest sweaters. Jeff saunters into the meetin' with a cap pulled down over one eye and a cigarette cocked at a jaunty angle in the mouth. He's got to ditch the pill

Dempsey Gets In Wrong Again

At the next meetin' of the Undertakers' Protective Union they got to put Jack Dempsey and John Kearns on the grease. Jack an' John it seems is intent on murderin' Georges Carpentier over in Europe, thereby takin' the bread out of the mouths of the babes of the American planters. It is pointed out that Dempsey could have furnished a job for good union guys diggers just before July and he was too stupid to give Mister Tex Rickard's customers a run for their money, but Jack was accused because the union thought a return match would be cooked up on this side of the large wetness. Just how the champion an' his manager can stand idly by an' see the undertaker's poor little children starvin' to death is beyond the comprehension of ordinary mortals, but I guess this prize fightin' sport makes a man brutal an' he'll stand for anything. No date has been set for the ceremonies yet, but the London and Paris shovel wielders are both hopin' for the best. Dempsey's K. O. of the Frenchman last summer seems to have been the most lastin' knock-out punch on record, as Georges has had a number of all-rounders and they have all been blamed on the champion's right hand. The latest is a carbuncle and poor little Georges is also havin' trouble with his teeth.

Hagy's Club to Play the Niles Victory Motors

Class 'B' Champions Line Up at Coast League Park in Morning

The Alameda West End Merchants, under the leadership of the estimable George Hagy, will hook up with the Niles Victory Motors at the Coast League park tomorrow morning at 10:30. The game is in the final series of the Class B championship of the TRIBUNE league.

Red Powers has taken over the reins of the Victory Motors, due to the sudden departure of Manager Tommy Elliott. Hagy is an intelligent any of his old bush stuff, which made him famous, the Encinal city team will have mighty rough sailing.

Rumors floating about the past week are to the effect that Powers may rest his star chucker, Larry Heller, and send "Duke" Cleary in for the mound duties. Heller will surely be needed next Sunday as the Western Electric team is expected to work a few times on the hilltop during the season and get by with the job in grand style. The probable selection of Cleary on the mound for the Victory Motors is merely a rumor, as stated before, and it may be that Powers will start the old reliable Heller on the mound.

Harry (Lefty) Klein is the slabster slated to hurl the Western Electric Alameda, and the southpaw is in wonderful trim, according to latest reports. General Manager Harry Heller should have to get bounced by the hard-hitting Motor team the Alamedans will be up against it for a relief chucker, as Fritz Warren is now on the roster of Alameda High and cannot play Sunday ball.

If past performances count for anything, the Victory Motors have an edge, for they showed more hitting ability and also better pitching in the California division than the Western End Merchants did in the Eastern division. In the two encounters against the Western Electric team, the boys were helpless against the shoots of Fred Bianchi, while the Motor boys did not have a single hit in the first Sunday at Hayward High.

The participants in the contest were "Strong Boy" Price, Eldorado (Kansas) wrestler, and "Sailor" Adams, local boxer.

CLEVELAND, March 11.—A world's bowling record was established here last night when the Waite Taxi firm team rolled 1243 in the second game of a sensational series with the Hawkeyes Tires in an Amateur Bowling League match.
